We have 160 Associate Members, and these are the officers nominated by the institutional members as their representatives in BAIPHIL. An institutional member may nominate as many representatives as it decides, though only one will exercise the right to vote. And finally, we have 81 Associate Life or Sustaining Life Members – most of them are past presidents of the organization, heads of institutions or personages who have distinguished themselves in the field of banking, or who have contributed significantly to the interest of BAIPHIL. We do have a good number of members who have opted to remain with the Association even after they have retired or resigned from bank employment. They continue to serve the membership by sheer choice. I would like to believe they do it simply because they feel -- it’s more fun in BAIPHIL.

I. Company Profile

FINSIA is the professional body in Australia and New Zealand for the financial services industry. FINSIA, the Financial Services Institute of Australasia, origins go back to 1886, when the AIBF was established by a group of bankers to drive improvements in professional practice and high standards of conduct.

Working with key stakeholders including the industry and regulators, FINSIA’s purpose continues to be to raise professional standards of competency and conduct in financial services. This supports raising trust and pride for FINSIA members to deliver better community outcomes. It is achieved through education, ongoing professional development and engagement within a professional community. Professional practitioners who are members of FINSIA are required to abide by a Code of Conduct, which is supported by disciplinary processes.

FINSIA has partnered with the Chartered Banker Institute to bring internationally recognised professional certifications to Australia and New Zealand.

The Chartered Banker pathway supports practitioners at all levels - from the foundation level, right through to the Chartered Banker certification, suitable for senior executives. Importantly this certification ensures professionals are covered by codes of ethics, and profess commitment to competence, integrity and morality, altruism, and the promotion of the public good within their expert domain.

FINSIA launched the “Professional Banking Fundamentals” program in June 2018. This was followed in 2019 by the “Certified Professional Banker” programs offering specialisms in business banking or retail lending, as well as core modules in risk management and ethics. The “Chartered Banker By Experience” program was launched in mid 2019 and the first two groups of Chartered Bankers have now graduated. In February 2020 FINSIA launched the Chartered Banker by study program.
In addition, FINSIA is working with the UK-based Chartered Institute For Securities & Investment (CISI) to implement relevant certifications in securities and investment sectors in Australia. The first collaborations are in ethics programs and in risk management including cyber-security and financial crime.

FINSIA will continue to seek opportunities for collaboration with other professional institutes internationally to deliver relevant high-quality programs.

FINSIA has recently implemented a Continuous Professional Development obligation for relevant members.

FINSIA organised 70 member events in 2019 which included live webinars for the first time, these were very well received.

Over the last two years in particular banking in Australia has been the subject of intense scrutiny via the “Royal Commission Into Misconduct In Financial Services”. There have also been regular scandals, primarily relating to poor conduct towards customers or poor regulatory compliance (for instance in anti-money laundering). The impact has been severe, forcing resignations from Board Chairs and CEOs of three of the four largest banks. Regulators have imposed significant fines and additional capital requirements as well as requiring major customer remediation projects. The costs are now many A$Billion, with more to come. In this environment FINSIA is highlighting the need to re-professionalise financial services and introduce more individual accountability throughout the organisation.
